Georgia and Massachusetts host Regional Workshops

How would you like to get the latest education program information offered through DANTES at a setting in beautiful Southbridge, Mass. in August or the bustling city of Atlanta, Ga. in September?

Atlanta Marriott Marquis

DANTES periodically conducts workshops in various regions around the U.S. to provide information and updates about DANTES programs.

These workshops are targeted to Education Service Officers (ESOs), counselors, and others who represent the military voluntary education community, along with representatives from colleges who provide degree programs to Service members.

The focus of the workshop is to promote a better understanding and utilization of the voluntary education programs managed by DANTES.

The agenda will cover such items as updates from Servicemembers Opportunity College, the American Council on Education, as well as what DANTES has to offer the military members throughout their career, whether that be two years or 30 plus years.

The Regional Workshop in Massachusetts will be held at the Department of Defense Executive Management Training Center, Southbridge Hotel & Conference Center, on August 7-9, located in the New England town of Southbridge. It is easily accessible, with just a one hour's drive from both Boston and Hartford, Conn.

Southbridge combines the beauty and hospitality of a fine hotel with the technological convenience of a conference center.

The lodging cost for the first 75 federal employees to register for the Southbridge Hotel is FREE. Adults only (no children) are allowed to stay in the Southbridge Hotel, and payment for the breakfast and lunch meals is mandatory for each adult staying in the hotel. The cost for the two meals will be $22.25 per person. Tax and all fees must be paid using a credit card. Deadline for registering is 14 July. To register for a hotel room plus attendance to the Southbridge DANTES Regional

SAT reminder

TCOs are reminded that 30 June 2007 is the last day for administration of the current year SAT form. SAT tests administered after this date will not be scored. Please inform potential examinees of this deadline. In lieu of the SAT, use the ACT in the months of July through September.

DANTES test centers may continue to use the current SAT examination, Form 55, until the 30 June 2007 cutoff date. Return all SAT Form 55 examinations immediately after 30 Jun. The SAT for use 2007 – 2008 may be ordered at the same time but will not be shipped until the test center's old SAT test booklets are received at the testing agency. The new SAT will be shipped in mid-Aug 07, which will allow most centers to have them entered into WebDATIP in time for the 30 Sep Inventory Report. These materials may be used immediately. However, the tests will not be scored until Oct 07.

A 2007-2008 DANTES/SAT Examiners Manual will provide instructions for the SAT Examination. Address your questions to exams@voled.doded.mil.

Troops to Teachers wins national award from MetLife

Retired Air Force veteran John Fredd, a teacher at Arizona's Percy L. Julian School, is one of 10,000 military veterans who have found a second career as a public school teacher with help from the Troops to Teachers program.

Troops to Teachers has been selected to receive the MetLife Foundation/Civic Ventures BreakThrough Award, one of 10 national award winners selected because, according to the official release, of "its inspiring practices in hiring and retaining individuals age 50 and over to meet important social needs."

According to the organization's Web site, the BreakThrough Award is for "innovative organizations that tap the passion and experience of people over 50 to improve society. It's a salute to any nonprofit or public sector agency that takes on local, national, or international challenges by engaging this vast and vibrant workforce for good."

Since 1994, Troops to Teachers (TTT) has helped more than 10,000 military veterans transition into second careers as public school teachers where their skills, knowledge and experience are most needed.

Nearly half of the 10,000 Troops to Teachers are 50 or over according to a 2005 National Center for Educational Information (NCEI) report, a majority of whom retired from military service after more than 20 years of service.

In addition to providing a second career to America's veterans, Troops to Teachers provides schools with highly qualified, highly-in-demand educators.

According to the NCEI report:

- 82 percent of teachers entering through Troops to Teachers are male, compared to 18 percent overall.
- 37 percent of Troops teachers are persons of color, compared to 15 percent overall.

- 46 percent of Troops teachers teach sciences (biology, geology, physics, and chemistry), versus 18 percent overall
- 27 percent are teaching math, versus 7 percent overall.

Troops to Teachers is administered by the Department of Defense and Department of Education and managed by the Defense Activity for Non-Traditional Education Support (DANTES). For more information, visit

Marine with love of music receives certification

At first glance, Andrew Bonica might not appear to have the profile of your typical Berkleemusic student. Then again, Bonica has never quite been typical in anything he has done. Bonica joined the Marine Corps at the age of 18 and while he continues to be proud of his decision to serve his country, Berkleemusic has allowed him to pursue studying what he truly loves, music.

While stationed in Miramar, Calif., Bonica completed Berkleemusic's Recording and Production for Guitar with Pro Tools Certificate, and is currently enrolled in the Professional Certificate for Electronic Music Production and Sound Design. While being in the Marines and taking online courses may sound like an impossible feat to some, Bonica approaches the challenge with intense eagerness, and even sees some parallels between his dual careers.

"I try to learn something from everyone, which goes hand-in-hand with my current situation," he says. "Berkleemusic has helped me discover that music is truly my number one passion and it is what I want to do full-time for the rest of my life."

In addition, Bonica has gained skills in the Marines that contribute directly to his musical aspirations. "My job here in the communications field working on electronics helps me with my musical goals."

While balancing his

responsibilities has been tough, Bonica has been able to keep up by maintaining a good perspective and working hard. "I was also working on a degree in telecommunications, so after work I would have class for that, then on top of that I would have Berkleemusic classes. But it's something I really want to accomplish, and doing it on my own gives me more of a sense of self-achievement."

In the midst of his studies, Bonica was sent on a year-long tour of Iraq. "Taking classes while I was there was hard, because the Internet is really slow, the access is limited and somewhat unreliable," he recalls. "But I recorded and began to produce a song that three other Marines collaborated on." Bonica also saw his deployment to Iraq as an opportunity. "I believe everything happens for a reason, and my deployment gave me the chance to reflect on the things I am fortunate to have, such as my friends and my family and the dreams I want to accomplish. I use all these thoughts as motivation for my music, and then I write about it."

Bonica recognizes not only where he wants to go, but also how lucky he is to have the choices he does. "Hopefully, with Berkleemusic's help, I'll be a talented guitar player, a great producer, skilled engineer, and a creative songwriter all-in-one. It's worth working for, especially after seeing things in other parts of the world and recognizing how grateful we should be to have the educational opportunities that we do."

Texas and Florida ACMEs held annual meetings

Both COMETS (Council on Military Education in Texas and the South) and FL-ACME (Florida Advisory Council on Military Education) held their annual meetings in April.

Kathie Walsh, incoming president of COMETS, asked the group to accept or reject a motion to sign a Memorandum of Understanding establishing a partnership with other ACMEs, the national organization, Council of College and Military Educators (CCME), and the Department of Defense (DoD). The COMETS membership decided that, in addition to focusing on challenges in their own states, they welcome the opportunity to collaborate with other ACMEs, CCME, and DoD to work on cross-state issues. Presentations from the meeting are posted on the COMETS Web site at:

<http://www.sa.wbu.edu/comets/home.htm>.

Capt. James Brown, Commander, NAS Key West, welcomed more than 60 participants to the annual Florida ACME conference. From Service member testimonials to the latest in mobile distance learning initiatives, the conference program had something for everyone. Many attendees were intrigued by Troy University's David White and his demonstration of a relatively low-cost solution for online test security while David Sutton, Pensacola Junior College, lightened things up with "Stuck on Stupid? The Lifelong Benefits of Ignorance." Debbie Wiggins will continue to serve as president for the upcoming year. Visit the Florida ACME Web site at <http://www.fla-acme.org> for further information on the organization.

Community College of the Air Force turns 35

by MCPO Tim Zernick, DANTES Special Enlisted Advisor

MCPO Zernick

On March 30 the Community College of the Air Force celebrated its 35th anniversary with style. The CCAF is the only federally chartered degree-granting institution that exclusively serves enlisted personnel. The CCAF has awarded more than 298,600 degrees in its 35-year history. In 2006 the CCAF awarded 16,771 two-year degrees, which is more than twice as many two-year degrees as any other college. Because of the efforts of the CCAF, almost 22 percent of enlisted personnel in the Air Force have a college degree.

CCAF is based at Maxwell AFB in Montgomery, Ala., and:

- enhances mission readiness
- contributes to recruiting
- assists in retention
- supports transition from the military to a new civilian position.

The anniversary festivities included an Air University/Community College of the Air Force Professional Development Workshop for select Air Force sergeants from air bases around the country.

Master Sgt. Mark Hurst, who earned three Bronze Stars and a Purple Heart in Afghanistan and Iraq, was an honored guest and was presented his CCAF associate degree. Hurst is featured in the Air Force publication Portraits in Courage, Airmen in the Fight <http://www.aia.af.mil/shared/media/document/AFD-070301-082.pdf>.

The celebration included a formal dinner with entertainment by the Air Force Strolling Strings.

"In any career or profession, a man's value is multiplied by his education. Schooling assures the good soldier a better chance to get ahead. It helps a man win promotion, more pay, and advancement in their knowledge of their vocation. A better educated soldier is a better soldier – more useful to his country and more useful to himself."

General Omar Bradley,
Chief of Staff, U.S. Army

In attendance were several members of the flight crew of Medal of Honor recipient Airmen First Class William Pitsenbarger. To assist in the pursuit of a bachelor's degree, the Air Force Association honors select CCAF graduates with the Pitsenbarger Award.

Guest speaker was retired Chief Master Sgt. Ray White, Vice Chancellor for Troy University, Montgomery Campus. He illustrated how far enlisted education had grown since the time of the Revolutionary War to the present. The above quote from Gen. Bradley was from his speech.

He added, "CCAF, through its associate degree, produces better Airmen for the U.S. Air Force. This translates into more productivity and more effective decision making. As Gen. Bradley stated, 'with this education, you'll be more useful to your country and more useful to yourself.'"

New MOU with SpaceTEC

DANTES recently signed a new MOU with SpaceTEC. Their mission is to formalize aerospace technician education nationally and establish a skills-based standards program that has industry-wide endorsement. In 2002, the National Science Foundation (NSF) awarded funds to establish a National Aerospace Technical Education Center, thus SpaceTEC was formed.

SpaceTEC offers a credentialing exam for Certified Aerospace Technician. The certification requires candidates to pass three components to include Written (online), Oral, and Practical Exam. Candidates must take and pass the Core Written exam in order to take the Oral and Practical Exam. The exam is comprised of questions from six areas of focus:

- Applied Mechanics
- Introduction to Aerospace
- Aerospace Safety
- Materials & Process I and II
- Basic Electricity
- Test and Measurements

DANTES looks forward to working with SpaceTEC, and we encourage interested personnel to visit their Web site at: <http://www.spacetec.org/main.asp>. Contact the DANTES Certification Programs section at certprog@voled.doded.mil or call DSN 922-1111 ext. 3213 or CML (850) 452-1111 ext. 3213.

Base education centers FAA inspector oversight

Effective 10 May 2007, test centers that administer DANTES-sponsored tests are not required to be inspected by the FAA Flight Standards District Offices and International Field Offices. In the past, overseas base education centers experienced problems establishing as FAA exam delivery locations due to limited or no available FAA inspectors.

DANTES appreciates the support FAA Airman Testing Standards Branch Manager and the FAA/DANTES Test Center Administrator (AFS-630) provide to make the FAA exams available to military personnel.

If your base education center is interested in establishing an FAA/CBT test center, contact certprog@voled.doded.mil or call DSN 922-1111 ext 3213 or ext. 3194.

Operation MBA

Current stock of the 2006 MBA Planner (DANTES Stock #2401) has been shipped recently to each education center.

The new updated 2007 Operation MBA (pictured right) will be available soon for ordering, in addition to the online version.

These MBA resources are designed specifically for military personnel by the Graduate Management Admission Council (GMAC). The new 16-page color booklet is intended for education counselors and Service members and includes information about different MBA programs, the advantages of an MBA, FAQs, timelines for graduate studies, and where to get started.

When the booklet becomes available, there will be a maximum order of 200 per year. Check the DANTES Reference Publications Web site (http://www.dantes.doded.mil/dantes\_web/distribution/refs.htm) to view this and other publications available.
